What is your dream?

At ANCOR, we know a lot about dreams.

Many of our members got their start because someone had the dream of a more fulfilling life for a family member or friend with a disability.

ANCOR itself was founded as a collective of individuals and organizations who shared this dream.

But we know that the most important dreams are those of the individuals our members support. They dream of having a home, a job, a circle of friends. They dream of a life defined by their abilities, not their disabilities.

ANCOR members are leading the way in innovation and adoption of leading practice in service delivery. We’ve identified the benchmarks of quality outcomes in areas like staff retention and stability, preventive health care, and the satisfaction of people receiving supports and their families. Our goal is to offer quality supports and services that make dreams come true.

To learn more about how ANCOR providers are helping people with disabilities realize their dreams, stop by our booth or visit us online at www.ancor.org.
Welcome to the Twentieth Anniversary Celebration of the Reinventing Quality Conference!

Those of you who have been to a previous Reinventing Quality Conference know that you are in for an exciting few days – full of energy, information, new ideas and new contacts.

We appreciate the many organizations and individuals who have agreed to share their knowledge and experience with us this year. I know you will agree that we have a knockout line-up of speakers both for the not-to-be-missed plenary sessions and the breakout sessions.

The theme of this year’s conference is, ‘What are We Waiting For: A Twentieth Anniversary Celebration of Best Practices and Future Directions.’ Some ask, ‘after twenty years, isn’t quality reinvented yet?’ If we have learned anything, it is that there is always further to go toward quality and toward achieving included, valued lives for people with disabilities and their families. No matter where you are on the path there are more steps to take!

We want to thank our terrific sponsors who keep Reinventing Quality operating as an affordable and popular event, the fabulous and diverse array of speakers, and you for spending this time with us. We hope you’ll take time to visit with our sponsors and with all of our exhibitors while you are here.

Have fun and enjoy all the fabulous door prizes collected by our amazing local committee. Don’t miss the closing session on Tuesday where some of the best door prizes will be up for grabs!

We’re glad you were able to come this year. If you have any concerns or if there is anything we can do to make your conference experience easier or more enjoyable, please don’t hesitate to call on any one of us. Staff are wearing a green ribbon and will be happy to assist you in any way we can.

Enjoy the conference!

OPENING PLENARY

Dale DiLeo has provided training throughout the US, Canada, and Europe on community inclusion for persons with disabilities. He is the Past President of the Association for Persons in Supported Employment (APSE), and is the lead author of that organization’s highly respected Ethical Guidelines in Supported Employment. He is the author of Employment First: Building a Culture that Expects Job Success and the founder of TRN, Inc. a company that provides training materials. His book, Raymond’s Room, focuses on ending the shameful segregation of people with disabilities in community life. Here is what Al Condeluci, Executive Director of UCP of Pittsburgh said about Dale’s book, Raymond’s Room: “For far too long we’ve been willing to accept the small gains experienced by folks with disabilities as acceptable. Raymond’s Room, by Dale DiLeo, kicks the door of acceptability back open. This book will cause all of us to rethink our roles in building full community opportunities for all people. This book puts reality right back in our faces. It raises consciousness, ignites passions and brings the spirit back into our work. If you have forgotten the story that got you interested in disability issues, this book will be your awakening.” Dale will kick off the conference with his reflections on the past and inspiring views of the future of the movement toward fully included lives.

PANEL: HEROES OF THE MOVEMENT

Val Bradley, President of the Human Services Research Institute will moderate the Heroes of the Movement Panel. Val’s interest in disability reform has been manifest in her involvement quality improvement, family support, deinstitutionalization, and performance measurement. Her career has been dedicated to a commitment to the quality of community services and supports. She has served as the Chair of the President’s Committee on People with Intellectual Disabilities under President Clinton and as President of the American Association on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities.

Thomas Gilhool, JD, is a retired staff attorney from the Public Interest Law Center of Philadelphia (PILCOP). He has been the lead attorney in precedent-setting lawsuits on behalf of people with disabilities. Gilhool was an attorney with PILCOP for 27 years. He retired in 2006 after being active in the public interest community for 41 years. Gilhool’s accomplishments include his pioneering representation of plaintiffs in PARC v. Commonwealth, which established the constitutional right of children with disabilities to a free, appropriate public education. This decision was the source of the first federal civil rights acts in this area: Section 504 of the Civil Rights Act of 1973 and what is now the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). In 1990 Gilhool developed a coalition of legal services organizations to enforce a new provision of the Social Security Act, which required states receiving federal funds to provide basic health care to children enrolled in Medicaid.

Teresa Moore is a long-time leader of the self-advocacy movement. She has been a member of the Board of Directors of Self-Advocates Becoming Empowered (SABE), a facilitator for Project Leadership, a coordinator of the My Voice, My Choice Project, a Coordinator of the Vote Education and VOTE Projects. She works for the National Technical Assistance Center for Voting and Cognitive Access. Teresa is also Chief Editor of “The Riot!”, a newsletter and blog housed at the Human Services Research Institute where self-advocates can share opinions, an online art gallery, toolkits, games and services to help individuals become stronger self-advocates.

Beth Mount is a national consultant working with programs throughout the United States to support others to see capacities in people with disabilities. Her groundbreaking work related to Personal Futures Planning promotes the positive futures and images of people with disabilities throughout the world and demonstrates that all of us count and all of us fit. In 1981, she founded her consulting organization, Graphic Futures, to establish transformational innovation projects that create new options for people through personal, organizational, and policy change. For 40 years, Beth has worked toward the ideal that every person with a disability can be a valued member of community life. She has collaborated on more than 100 publications and artworks that tell stories of imagining and implementing positive futures for people with disabilities. Her efforts demonstrate that communities can support the contributions of people with disabilities, and that organizations can adapt to be more person-centered.

John O’Brien is a Principal of Responsive Systems Associates. He is a visionary leader working on projects involving a network of people who cooperate in building local capacity to include people with substantial disabilities in all aspects of community life. Projects focus on facilitating planning that improves our ability to listen and respond, for people and their families, agencies, service systems, and governments; assisting innovators to evaluate programs and policies that open new opportunities for community participation and choice; helping people reflect on the meaning of providing personal assistance and the work of designing and leading agencies that reveal and support capacities and mutual contributions; and supporting people to communicate what they are learning from their lives and their work.

TUESDAY

PLENARY

Sharon Lewis, Commissioner, Administration on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities, Administration for Community Living, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Sharon Lewis was appointed by President Obama to serve as Commissioner of the Administration on Developmental Disabilities in March 2010, where she works on ensuring that people with disabilities have the opportunity to fully participate in all aspects of community living, including employment, education, and healthcare. Prior to her appointment, she served as the Senior Disability Policy Advisor to U.S. House Committee on Education & Labor, as a Kennedy Public Policy Fellow for U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Children & Families, and worked in Oregon on DD policy. She is parent to three daughters, one of whom experiences a developmental disability and is becoming a strong self-advocate in her own right. Public Policy Fellow for U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Children & Families. Sharon is the recipient of numerous awards, including the 2010 Distinguished Leadership in National Disability Policy Award and the Consortium for Citizens with Disabilities Chairman’s Award.

Clarence J. Sundram, JD, is a nationally recognized expert on conditions in institutions and community programs for persons with disabilities. He is the Special Advisor to the Governor of New York for Vulnerable Persons and also serves as the Special Master & Court Monitor in class action lawsuits in Washington, DC involving the rights of persons with disabilities. For 20 years, Mr. Sundram served as the founding Chairman of the New York State Commission on Quality of Care and Advocacy for Persons with Disabilities, an independent state oversight agency charged with advising the governor and legislature, investigating deaths, financial fraud and abuse in programs serving persons with mental disabilities. Mr. Sundram has also served as Vice-Chairman of the New York State Developmental Disabilities Planning Council, and as a member of the Board of Directors the National Disability Rights Network. He has consulted in over 20 states and Canadian provinces, and for the U.S. Department of Justice on issues of protection from abuse, neglect and exploitation; restraint and seclusion; quality assurance and risk management. Clarence’s presentation is titled, “With the Best of Intentions: The Unintended Consequences of Community Systems.” He will discuss the infrastructure needed to assure quality as we move to more independent supports.

While it is true rights are protected by law and policy, David Hingsburger will speak about rights as something importantly personal. David works providing direct service to people with intellectual disabilities. He is the Director of Clinical and Educational Services for Vita Community Living Services and a primary consultant for the Sexuality Clinic at York Simcoe Behaviour Management Services. Dave also works in private practice as a consultant for schools, parents and agencies. He has published over 30 books and numerous articles in magazines, newspapers and journals. Dave wrote and narrated the controversial radio documentary “Life, Death and Disability” for the CBC. Dave lectures extensively. He has given keynote presentations nationally and internationally. In the fall of 2009, Dave was inducted into the Canadian Disability Hall of Fame.

Ricardo Thornton is an outspoken advocate for people’s right to live lives of their own choosing and design. He is a clerk at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Library in Washington, D.C. Ricardo began by volunteering at the library 32 years ago as part of a special education program. Early on he worked with a job coach but soon he became a full-time paid employee. A vocal self-advocate, dedicated husband and father, athlete and ambassador, Ricardo speaks passionately about the importance of full participation and self-determination for people with developmental disabilities. He will challenge us to continue the move toward quality and full community inclusion for all.
The first “Reinventing Quality Conference” was sponsored by the National Association of State Directors of Developmental Disabilities Services (NASDDDS) and the Research and Training Center at the University of Minnesota in 1991 in Washington DC. This conference first arose as services and supports were evolving and becoming more person-centered, and as many states were starting to address new and emerging issues in quality of services and in quality assurance. The Administration on Developmental Disabilities provided a small amount of funding to the RTC to fund travel for speakers and self-advocates, and to develop and print a Reinventing Quality manual for those coming to the conference, which featured innovative projects and programs from around the country.

The first conference was small, with 115 people, and was primarily aimed at working discussions concerning innovations in quality assurance. It was attended largely by state agency personnel working on alternative quality assurance programs, people from the Council on Quality and Leadership, some CSM staff working on quality assurance in waiver programs, DD Council staff, ANCOR personnel, and researchers involved in outcomes research. A second conference was held in 1994 with ANCOR joining in as a hosting partner. For this conference, a second version of the Reinventing Quality manual was developed by the RTC and Gary Smith of the NASDDDS.

In 1999 the Administration on Developmental Disabilities funded NASDDDS for a three-year project for Quality Best Practices. This comprehensive project was named “Reinventing Quality: Fostering Promising Practices in Person-Centered Community Services and Quality Assurance for Persons with Developmental Disabilities,” and Gary Smith was the project director. NASDDDS partnered with Human Services Research Institute and the RTC at the University of Minnesota for this initiative.

The project was aimed at accelerating the adoption of person-centered principles and practices in public systems, and fostering promising practices in person-centered community services and quality management initiatives.

It was intended to bring consumers and families together with government officials, service providers and advocates to develop a clear vision, blueprint and national implementation strategy for designing public systems based on person-centered principles. One element of the project was the selection of four states for case studies of comprehensive outcome-based plan development to move to person-centered services and quality assurance.

A big part of the project was providing interactive exchange and dissemination of information to promote person-centered supports. One of the main avenues of dissemination was the state-of-the-art “Quality Mall” website, which replaced the print manuals that had been developed in the 1990’s. A second big avenue for dissemination was conferences, including a consensus conference for bringing together all stakeholders for the purpose of identifying essential features of public systems that employ person-centered principles. Two national Reinventing Quality conferences were held as part of this project.

After the three years of the project were completed, given the demand and enthusiasm for the conference, the three hosting partners continued to put on the conference every year or two. While having started out with several conferences in Chicago, the planning team started to rotate through other parts of the country, and conferences were also held in San Diego, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Charleston, and Baltimore. As it was able to, the Administration on Developmental Disabilities continued to provide supplemental funding for the Quality Mall website and for self-advocate travel to the national conferences. The University of Delaware’s Leadership Consortium joined in as a hosting partner in 2008.

Over the years, the Reinventing Quality conference has continued to be a conference which features speakers invited to share their work toward fulfilling the most innovative directions and best practices. It has continued to feature various types of person-centered programs and supports, sharing about experiences as programs shift directions to more person-centered supports, and person-centered directions in quality management and quality assurance.

Welcome to the 20th anniversary celebration of sharing these innovations!

Don’t miss the Welcome Reception!

Have some refreshments, check out our sponsor’s exhibits, find old friends and make some new ones! Enjoy the music of Ray Eicher. All are welcome!

CPI—Educating, Empowering, and Enriching

Join Us!
On August 7 at 7:00 a.m., CPI’s Kendra Stea will host a roundtable discussion on Positive Behavior Supports!

CPI is the standard-setting workplace learning provider that equips employees to have an immediate, tangible, and lasting positive impact on the people and organizations they serve. Our Nonviolent Crisis Intervention® program is the worldwide standard in crisis prevention training for human service providers. The program offers a proven effective approach to managing and preventing difficult behavior.

With a core philosophy of providing for the Care, Welfare, Safety, and SecuritySM of everyone involved in a crisis situation, the program’s practical strategies give human service providers the skills to safely and effectively respond to anxious, hostile, or violent behavior while balancing the responsibilities of care.

Visit crisisprevention.com/quality for more information and download our FREE eBook with insightful tips for creating a safer, more caring work environment.

Quality Management Challenges and Solutions

Systems of support for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities are operating in a dynamic and challenging environment. Expectations regarding performance and efficiency are increasing while resources become more scarce. The sessions in this strand will highlight how states and providers are responding to these challenges by reforming and sharpening their quality oversight and setting standards more in keeping with person centered practices. Throughout these sessions, the importance of individual and valued outcomes will be stressed.

STRAND CHAIR: Val Bradley, HSRI

Person Centered Practice – It’s Not What You Think!

The Developmental Disability systems from six states participated in a three year grant to implement person centered practices in all aspects of their systems. The results were surprising in some areas, and resulted in shifting of roles, processes and relationships. The learning involved State DD offices, regional offices, provider agencies, service coordination agencies, licensing/certification offices and Medicaid offices. Three key factors in the projects will be shared during this three session strand.

STRAND CHAIRS: Mary Lou Bourne, Support Development Associates; Michael Smull, Support Development Associates

Improving Quality through Managed Care

Is your state moving at the speed of light to re-configure the way it funds Medicaid services? Are you primed to respond to changes with agility? Are you a leader in your state’s discussions about the opportunities under the implementation of the Affordable Care Act (ACA)? As the challenges of sustaining the Medicaid program rise to the forefront nationally, states are compelled to re-design the way they support Medicaid beneficiaries, including the very supports critical ensuring people with disabilities live meaningful lives in their communities. This strand will provide participants with an understanding of what states are discussing (and implementing in some cases) with regard to funding vehicles for long term services and supports for people with disabilities. Can our valued guiding principles for self-direction be infused into a managed care framework? Where do people with disabilities fit into states’ efforts to redesign service structures for people who are eligible for both Medicaid and Medicare (dual eligible)?

STRAND CHAIRS: Diane McComb, Delmarva Foundation; Lilia Teninty, HSRI

Housing: The Key to Community Living

Housing is often the key to having a good life in the community – come hear great ideas and strategies for achieving person-controlled housing! The Housing strand will provide several perspectives on affordable supportive housing. Speakers will share information about national initiatives and collaborations; local partnerships with tested strategies for increasing the availability of affordable/accessible housing; and personal experience using existing resources to plan for, acquire and use affordable housing resources in conjunction with self-directed services.

STRAND CHAIRS: Diane Dressler, Maryland Center for Developmental Disabilities at Kennedy Krieger Institute; Chris Smith, Maryland Center for Developmental Disabilities at Kennedy Krieger Institute

Direct Support Workforce Issues

Strategies and evidence based practices to improve the competence, skills and ethical practice of people who provide direct support.

STRAND CHAIR: Amy Hewitt, University of Minnesota, Research and Training Center on Community Living

The Journey from Traditional Services to Person-Centered Supports

This strand will provide conference participants with different perspectives about the shift taking place across the United States and the world from traditional services to person-centered and individualized supports. This concept, usually referred to transformation and/or conversion, includes the shift away from day services and sheltered workshops to supported employment and from group homes and traditional residential services to supported living. Join us as we explore this important shift toward self-designed lives! We will discuss ways that organizations/agencies can be positively involved in helping to move from traditional services to personalized and individualized responses to people with disabilities and their families. The six agencies involved in these presentations have all shifted their thinking and assisted people who select to receive supports from them to lead successful and fully included lives.

STRAND CHAIR: Jeff Strully, Jay Nolan Community Services, Inc.

Supporting Individuals by Strengthening Families

The overall goal of supporting families, with all of their complexity and diversity, is to maximize their capacity, strengths, and unique abilities so they can best support, nurture, love and facilitate opportunities for the achievement of self-determination, interdependence, productivity, integration, and inclusion in all facets of community life for their family members.

STRAND CHAIRS: Sheli Reynolds, Institute for Human Development, UMKC; Nancy Thaler, NASDDDS
Employment Issues
For many Americans, employment is a key component to life. It provides opportunities to use and develop skills, meet new people and contribute to the economy. This strand will provide multiple perspectives about how to improve the employment outcomes for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Sessions will bring leaders together to discuss innovative practices being used to facilitate better jobs for better pay, strategies for system change and the need for further leadership, and how to collect and use data to improve existing service systems.
STRAND CHAIR: Derek Nord, University of Minnesota, Research and Training Center on Community Living

Technology
Identifying practices and strategies to improve quality through the use of technology.
STRAND CHAIRS: David Braddock, Univ. of Colorado, The Coleman Institute for Cognitive Disabilities; Amy Hewitt, University of Minnesota, Research and Training Center on Community Living

Shared Living
We will explore shared living and how it is a new take on supporting individuals through building and sustaining relationships. The strand will look at several states’ approaches to developing and sustaining shared living arrangements – and in particular how shared living is more than a host home or foster care. The strand will include a state perspectives along with those of supporting provider organizations and those of lifesharer’s as well.
STRAND CHAIR: Robin Cooper, NASDDDS

Transition Issues
Youth are the promise of this country’s future. We are dependent upon their talents, educational prowess and skills to maintain the United States as a world economic leader. However, employment for youth with disabilities, particularly for youth with intellectual disabilities, lags far behind employment of their peers without disabilities. The two sessions in this strand will highlight three projects that hold promise for extensive change for post secondary education and state systems change leading to employment outcomes. All of these projects are built upon high expectations and personal and professional outcomes while acknowledging that changes must occur at multiple levels in order to achieve competitive employment in our communities across the country.
STRAND CHAIR: Karen Fippo, Institute for Community Inclusion, UMass Boston

Re-thinking Supports for Individuals with Behavioral Health Needs
Supporting individuals with behavioral health needs in addition to intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) is a complex issue for systems, providers, and caregivers. Community-based crisis services, medication review processes, and environmental design principles are all examples of positive practices that can be used to maximize independence and minimize reliance on restrictive behavioral interventions and over-use of psychotropic drugs. Presenters will discuss these and other current approaches to providing effective behavioral supports for adults receiving I/DD services.
STRAND CHAIR: Sarah Taub, HSRI

Evolving a Shared Research Agenda
Engaging in setting a research agenda related to quality outcomes for people with intellectual disabilities and their families.
STRAND CHAIR: Amy Hewitt, University of Minnesota, Research and Training Center on Community Living

Federal Initiatives to Expand and Improve Supports for People with Disabilities
With the federal government underwriting the costs of home and community services, federal agencies play a major role in developing opportunities for people with disabilities, securing their rights and enabling the Promise of the ADA and Olmstead to become real. Sessions with several federal agencies will provide an opportunity to learn about the initiatives and plans for the future.
STRAND CHAIR: Nancy Thaler, NASDDDS

Quality Management Challenges and Solutions
Systems of support for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities are operating in a dynamic and challenging environment. Expectations regarding performance and efficiency are increasing while resources become more scarce. The sessions in this strand will highlight how states and providers are responding to these challenges by reforming and sharpening their quality oversight and setting standards more in keeping with person centered practices. Throughout these sessions, the importance of individual and valued outcomes will be stressed.
STRAND CHAIR: Val Bradley, HSRI

Self Advocacy
Self-advocates discuss critical issues facing their organizations across the country. Topics include support and resources for self-advocacy organizations, the role of advisors, working together for a bigger impact, outcomes of the national series of self-advocacy summits, and more. There will be plenty of opportunity for discussion.
STRAND CHAIRS: Dawn Rudolph, AUCD; Liz Weintraub, AUCD

Evidence Based Policy: What Does the Research Tell Us About Public Policy?
In 2010, the National Association of State Director of Developmental Disabilities Services (NASDDDS) and the Association of University Centers on Disability (AUCD) agreed to collaborate in developing products and activities promoting the responsible application of the best available research evidence in the design, administration and reform of services. The initiative is designed to stimulate the preparation of critical research reviews on topics of importance in developing and implementing sound public policy affecting individuals with developmental disabilities and their families.
STRAND CHAIR: Chas Moseley, NASDDDS
BREAKFAST ROUNDTABLES – TUESDAY

Join one of these all inclusive, open discussions on Tuesday morning, 7:00 – 8:15 am in the Baltimore Ballroom for a chance to delve further into topics that interest you!

Table 1  Allies in Self-Advocacy Summits – Now What?
Let's discuss what has...or hasn't...happened in your state after the self-advocacy summits took place. We can share ideas and resources, talk about support that would be helpful, and problem-solve challenges that may be in place.

Table 2  Be Part of the Change! Effecting Important Public Policy Changes In Your State
What are the best ways for people who work in the field, people with disabilities, family members and other advocates to have an influence on public policy? Join this lively discussion about the public policy issues you view as most critical and the best ways to have your voice heard!
STEVE EIDELMAN, sme@udel.edu
University of Delaware, www.nlccd.org

Table 3  Direct Support Professionalism
Many have noted that the quality of supports and services for people with disabilities can be defined at the point of interaction between the person and his or her direct support worker. There is growing attention among service providers and policy makers toward competency-based training, career ladders and credentialing. Come discuss ways to select, develop and keep the very best of our direct support workforce.

Table 4  Employment First: Making it “Work” for Everyone.
If we say that we are ‘employment first,’ that hopefully means for everybody! We want your ideas and thoughts — join this discussion on concrete ways that we can make employment work for everybody, including those of us with the most significant disabilities.
RACHEL KNIGHT, rachel_knight@cisworks.org
Community Integrated Services, www.cisworks.org

Table 5  Evaluation – Making it Make Sense!
Come participate in this discussion of current methods and practices in the I/DD field, especially around quality. Let’s discuss a host of observations around what is working, what is not working, and any barriers that can be addressed. We will discuss things like organizational capacity, technology, and funder demands – how are people handling these sometimes conflicting demands?
CHRIS SMITH, SmithChr@kennedykrieger.org

Liberty Health, www.libertyhealth.com

Table 8  Homeward Bound!
People want to live as independently as possible. Our I/DD congregate care system is unsustainable and out of touch with the needs of people with I/DD. How can we shift the policy and practice of our I/DD systems to better reflect housing needs and highlight the non-“I/DD system” resources that are available federally and locally. How do people from different states address the issues?
JOHN MALTBY, jmalby@wihd.org
Westchester Institute for Human Development, www.wihd.org

Table 9  How to Support the Self-Determination of Individuals While They are Living with their Families
More and more adults with disabilities live with their families. How do we assure that both the person with the disability and their family members have meaningful lives of their own? Come share your thoughts about the challenges inherent in adults living at home and ways to make it work for everyone!
NANCY THALER, nthaler@nasddds.org
NASDDDS, www.nasddds.org

Table 10  Including Self Advocates on Committees and Boards in Meaningful Ways
We all support the idea of “nothing about us without us” – but sometimes people with disabilities are included but are not supported to play meaningful roles. Come discuss ways to be sure that people with disabilities are included on boards, committees and in other important roles without tokenism. Everyone is invited to join this conversation which will be full of ideas to take back!
BILL KREBS, mr.trouble64@yahoo.com
The Promise of Youth – Employment and Higher Education
Our roundtable discussion participants will share the practices and policies that are working in their communities and statehouses to create and realize expectations for employment and higher education outcomes for youth and young adults with disabilities. Transition is a value, a coordinated set of services, funding streams, and outcomes. We’ll talk about each of these as we inspire one another to help affect positive change.

Quality in Managed Care Programs – How Can We Be Sure that Personal Outcomes are Achieved?
Does the move toward managed care threaten the commitment to person centered supports? Can quality in managed care systems be measured in ways that still focus on the outcomes that are important to people receiving supports? Join Ralph Lollar, Director of the CMS Disabled and Elderly Health Program Group as we discuss this important issue!

BREAKOUT SESSION 1
STRAND: Supporting Communities That Welcome All People – Asset Based Community Development

Building Real Communities
This session will provide an overview of Asset Based Community Development based on the work of John McKnight. This approach is an innovative and exciting way to think about transforming communities. In the disability community, person-centered approaches have taught us the importance of focusing on an individual’s strengths and talents. In community centered approaches, tools such as Asset Based Community Development help us to focus on what already exists in communities and build off strengths in the areas of people, associations, institutions, economics and physical components. This approach fits seamlessly with person-centered planning and allows us to think about how individuals fit into the larger collective idea of community.

SPEAKERS: Eric Jacobson, Georgia Council on Developmental Disabilities; Caitlin Childs, Georgia Council on Developmental Disabilities; Joe Erpenbeck, ABCD Cincinnati Coordinator; De’Amon Harges, Broadway United Methodist Church; Anne Mitchell, Tesserae Learning

BREAKOUT 1 Monday 10:45 – 12:15 Maryland A
STRAND: Quality Management Challenges and Solutions

Reforming and Enhancing Quality Assurance and Improvement Systems
This panel will include presentations from two states that have used quality challenges as a catalyst to reform and improve their quality oversight and monitoring. One state, Tennessee, began this work several years ago. The other state, New York, is in the process of making important and positive changes in their quality management practices.

SPEAKERS: Commissioner Courtney Burke, NY Office of Persons with Developmental Disabilities; Pat Nichols, TN Department of Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities

BREAKOUT 1 Monday 10:45 – 12:15 Maryland B

STRAND: Person Centered Practice – It’s Not What You Think!

Person Centered Practice – Far More than a Person Centered Plan
Basic questions of about the six-state Person Centered Practice project will be answered, including: What was involved in the change project? How did it cross the full DD system? Examples will be shared from intake and eligibility to crisis management to supervisor’s training, employee evaluations, and monitoring, licensing and quality management. Discussions regarding what states actually changed and how they made the changes happen will reveal what it takes to move from transactional to transformational change.

SPEAKERS: Mary Lou Bourne, Support Development Associates; Marilee Bell, Oregon Department of Human Services, Developmental Disability Services; Mary Lee Fay, TN Department of Human Services, Developmental Disability Services; Lee Price, VA Office of Developmental Services

BREAKOUT 1 Monday 10:45 – 12:15 Maryland C

STRAND: Improving Quality through Managed Care

Federal Panel on Managed Care
Representatives from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and the National Council on Disability (NCD) will present on current topics and trends in managed care.

SPEAKERS: Julie Carroll, National Council on Disability; Nancy Klimon, CMS and Division of Elderly Health Programs Group; Tim Engelhardt, Federal Coordinated Health Care Office, CMS

BREAKOUT 1 Monday 10:45 – 12:15 Maryland D

STRAND: Housing: The Key to Community Living

No Cooking Skills Needed: Using Existing Resources to Put Together a Self-Directed Life
The transition from living with the family to living independently can be stressful for everyone involved. Families struggle with knowing when the planning process should start, choosing the best housing option, making independent housing affordable, addressing healthcare and independent living needs, and identifying people who can help with the process. Parents wonder...will we sleep at night? This presentation answers all these questions and more!

SPEAKERS: Diane Dressler, Maryland Center for Developmental Disabilities at Kennedy Krieger Institute; Annie Heinlein, self-advocate; Mary Scott, Baltimore County Public Schools Transition Resource Teacher

BREAKOUT 1 Monday 10:45 – 12:15 Maryland E

STRAND: Direct Support Workforce Issues

Quality Services = Quality DSPs
In response to the recent difficulties in New York related to quality and incidences of abuse and neglect, NADSP and its affiliate chapter, DSPNYS, have worked to uplift the profession of DSPs in NY by implementing ethics training and advocating for credentialing and improved training practices. This session will provide an overview of this effort and other systems change initiatives to improve support to people with disabilities by improving the quality and competence of the direct support workforce. Additionally the results of a comprehensive training intervention study that measures outcomes for people with disabilities and their workers conducted in Minnesota by the University of Minnesota’s Research and Training Center on Community Living will be provided.

SPEAKERS: Amy Hewitt, University of MN, RTC on Community Living; Joe MacBeth, National Alliance for Direct Support Professionals

BREAKOUT 1 Monday 10:45 – 12:15 Maryland F
STRAND: The Journey from Traditional Services to Person-Centered Supports

The Next Generation of Supports: In Partnership with People with Disabilities, Their Families and Communities
This session will offer practical information as well as insights on the lessons being learned from people with disabilities who are leading their services. Focus will be on sharing the ways of fostering and sustaining true partnerships with people who use services, their chosen allies and communities. Participants will leave with a deeper understanding about how to offer support that enables people to control their services so that ultimately they are living lives of their choosing.

SPEAKERS: Gail Godwin, Shared Support Maryland; Marian Saulino, Values Into Action
BREAKOUT 1  Monday  10:45 – 12:15  Baltimore A

STRAND: Supporting Individuals by Strengthening Families

Strategies for Families for Discovery and Navigation
Families need to see the reality and possibility for the future, starting early in the child’s life and continuing through the lifespan. This is a continuous process of family growth – learning about what is possible, what is innovative, and what has been successful in supporting families and individuals throughout the lifespan and navigating the future for their family. This session will highlight different strategies for supporting families as they begin their journey and plan for the future.

SPEAKERS: John Dickerson, The Arc of Indiana; Sheli Reynolds, Institute for Human Development, UMKC
BREAKOUT 1  Monday  10:45 – 12:15  Baltimore B

STRAND: Employment Issues

Employment: What Do We Know About How It’s Working? Using Data to Improve Effectiveness
Data plays an important role in developing and assessing effective employment systems for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Currently, data is being collected across the country through a variety of mechanisms. This presentation will provide information about these data collection activities and report findings on employment system effectiveness. The presentation will also provide perspectives from state leaders on how these data can be used to inform system-level decisions.

SPEAKERS: John Butterworth, Institute for Community Inclusion, Umass Boston; Linda Rolfe, Washington Division On Developmental Disabilities; Sarah Taub, HSRI

STRAND: Supporting Communities That Welcome All People – Asset Based Community Development

Communities Include Everyone
In Indianapolis, Broadway United Methodist Church has created a community where people’s strengths and passions are used to create a community that supports all its members. Broadway United Methodist Church is a congregation that has deep roots in the community. It sees its role as being a good neighbor by seeking and utilizing the gifts of each and every person in its parish in ways that build community, the economy, and mutual Delight! Meet De’Amon Harges, Broadway’s Roving Listener and learn what it means to hear the voices of community. The Georgia Council on Developmental Disabilities is changing the way it thinks about its role and how it will achieve its mission. Its Real Communities initiative is supporting seven communities around the state to create places that welcome all people including people with disabilities. By using Asset Based Community Development and developing strong relationships among a diverse group of stakeholders, The Georgia Council is creating bridges between people with and without disabilities as a means for making local communities a better place for everyone. Caitlin Childs, The Georgia Council’s Director of Community Organizing will present on the work of this organization.

SPEAKERS: De’Amon Harges, Broadway United Methodist Church; Caitlin Childs, Georgia Council on Developmental Disabilities
BREAKOUT 2  Monday  1:45 – 3:15  Maryland A
The Impact of Olmstead Lawsuits on State Quality Management Systems
The Olmstead case and subsequent litigation in a number of states has been a powerful goad to states to both expand community options but also to improve quality management systems. Two states, GA and VA, will describe the ways in which they have responded to Olmstead litigation to enhance quality monitoring – GA beginning a few years and ago and VA very recently.

SPEAKERS: Marion Olivier, Georgia Quality Management System and Delmarva Foundation; Lee Price, Office of Developmental Services; Eddie Towson, Division of Developmental Disabilities, GA.

BREAKOUT 2 Monday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland B

Leadership Roles and Person Centered Thinking Coaches
Building in the support and capacity to change the paradigm in your full organization requires leadership at all levels of the agency. Some of the questions that will be answered include: What do leaders need to do? What is a person centered thinking Coach? Three levels of change were undertaken: Level One were changes implemented by support teams, involving what could be done differently today. Level Two Changes were operational changes in organizational policy, procedure or practice. Level Three changes involved statewide policy, procedure or practice – changes requiring approval from a state system management office. How the changes were identified and implemented will be shared.

SPEAKERS: Mary Lou Bourne, Support Development Associates; David Meadows, VA Department of Behavioral Health and Disability Services; Michael Smull, Support Development Associates; Barry Seaver, VA Department of Behavioral Health and Disability Services; Jo Viars, Mount Rogers Community Services Board; Kathy Witt, VA Department of Behavioral Health and Disability Services.

Planning the People First Waiver in New York: One State’s Experience and Lessons
Commissioner Courtney Burke is leading the New York Office of People with Developmental Disabilities (OPDDW) in a significant, system-wide effort to improve quality, focus on personal outcomes and enhance the coordination of care for people with disabilities. This discussion will include an overview and update on the planning and process used to develop the People First Waiver (1115).

SPEAKERS: Commissioner Courtney Burke, NY Office of Persons with Developmental Disabilities; Max Donatelli, Baker Victory Services; John Maltby, Westchester Institute for Human Development; Peter Pierri, People First Steering Committee and Provider Association Representative; Lisa Severino, self-advocate; Steven Vernikoff, Center for Family Support.

BREAKOUT 2 Monday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland D

Power of Partnerships in Creating Person Centered Housing Resources
We are challenged to create housing opportunities that are truly individualized; where the person experiencing a disability is the leaseholder or deed holder of their home. In order to increase the availability of affordable/accessible housing resources, it is critical to work closely with local and state housing developers and financiers. This session will provide an array of proven strategies and methods utilized throughout the United States for creating person-controlled community based rental housing and homeownership opportunities while highlighting the essential community partnerships necessary for success.

SPEAKERS: Joe Wykowski, Community Vision

BREAKOUT 2 Monday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland E

2010 Moving Mountains: Best Practices in Direct Support Workforce
This session will provide an overview of two Moving Mountains award winners who will share the implementation, maintenance and outcomes of their award winning direct support workforce intervention. The presenters will engage the participants in discussion around how to replicate and implement similar strategies in their support services. The two award winners for this session are: 1) Pathways to Excellence, implemented through Ability Beyond Disability, and 2) NADSP/CDS Credentialing Project, implemented through Mat-Su Services for Children and Adults.

SPEAKERS: Jennifer Cottingham, Mat-Su Services for Children and Adults; Kris Foss, Ability Beyond Disability; Trish Walter, Mat-Su Services for Children and Adults.

BREAKOUT 2 Monday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland F
STRAND: The Journey from Traditional Services to Person-Centered Supports

Transforming to Support People to Live Real Lives as Citizens
This session will share the journeys of Onondaga Community Living, an organization that transformed over 20 years ago from traditional services to fully individualized supports; and Neighbours Inc an organization started in 1995 to provide only individualized supports. The mission, practices, processes, policies and culture that make it work — the "nuts and bolts" of how it works in transitioning an agency and also starting new with a agency — will be discussed. We will share where investments have been made that enable people to live real lives as citizens of their local community. We will also share information on efforts both agencies have recently undertaken to support other organizations interested in transforming their traditional services.

SPEAKERS: Pat Fratangelo, Onondaga Community Living; Patti Scott, Neighbours, Inc.

BREAKOUT 2  Monday  1:45 – 3:15  Baltimore A

STRAND: Supporting Individuals by Strengthening Families

Families Connecting and Networking with Other Families
Connections with other families, connections with family groups, and connections with self-advocates help to empower families and the individual with a disability and increase their social capital. These types of connections increase the likelihood that families will have the opportunity to think about a vision for the future. Listen to how organizations and networks around the country are supporting families to create an "enviable life" for all of their family members.

SPEAKERS: Dana Yarbrough, National Parent-to-Parent

BREAKOUT 2  Monday  1:45 – 3:15  Baltimore B

STRAND: Employment Issues

Advancing Innovations in Employment Supports through State Leadership
Employment is a priority for many people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Service and support systems must respond with effective mechanism to connect people with quality services. This presentation brings together various state leaders to discuss the importance of leadership and use of best practices to improve employment services and outcomes. State leaders will provide information about specific strategies they used to improve the employment systems in their states.

SPEAKERS: Jane Gallivan, Division of Developmental Disabilities Services Delaware Health and Social Services; Frank Kirkland, Maryland Developmental Disabilities Administration; Adam Sass, Commonwealth of Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services; Rie Kennedy-Lizotte, NASDDDS, Moderator

STRAND: Supporting Communities That Welcome All People – Asset Based Community Development

Neighborhoods, Connections and Care – the Practices that Help Us Connect Learn ways that Asset Based Community Development principles can be implemented and how we all are changed when we share our gifts with others. Joe Erpenbeck will present a miraculous story of how a small group of staff began having a different type of conversation. This has resulted in people becoming active citizens, having more friends, and helping neighborhoods become more alive and inclusive. Explore simple ways that we can change the way that we do our work so that we are connectors not caretakers. Anne Mitchell will offer practices that people can use in their homes, neighborhoods, communities and workplaces to cultivate a true sense of BELONGING. Once we feel that we belong, when we have that sense of “THIS is where I should be; THIS is what I should be doing” and when that sense is shared with others, we can much more easily create inclusive opportunities for ourselves and the people we support. There are many practices we can use and this session will highlight some of them so that participants can use them wherever and however they choose. Roger Stancliffe will discuss transition to retirement in Australia and social inclusion alternatives for individuals as they move to retirement age.

Roger Stancliffe will present an innovative program that was started in Australia to support aging individuals to move into volunteering or joining mainstream community groups.

SPEAKERS: Anne Mitchell, Tesserae Learning; Joe Erpenbeck, ABCD Cincinnati Coordinator; Roger Stancliffe, The University of Sidney

STRAND: Person Centered Practice – It’s Not What You Think!

Building a Person Centered System: The Importance of Alignment

When parts of a system are in opposition or competition with each other, what’s the result? Building collaborative partnerships across agencies is the key to developing the collective innovation necessary to change practices system-wide. One key aspect to building the capacity for a full systems change is focusing on the role of advocates. Using a business model to assess five areas of the system (leadership, knowledge management, process management, and customer and employee focus) to demonstrate alignment expands the capabilities of the full system. This capability is seen when systems move from quality management based in corrective action plans to one that is based in shared learning and opportunities for improvement requires a culture change for the full DD system.

SPEAKERS: Parthy Dinora, Virginia Commonwealth University, Partnership for People with Disabilities; Laura Doutra, TN Department of Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities; Mary Lee Fay, Oregon Department of Human Services, Developmental Disability Services; Michael Smull, Support Development Associates

STRAND: Evidence Based Policy: What Does the Research Tell Us about Public Policy?

Using Research Data to Build and Implement Effective Public Policy

In 2010, the National Association of State Director of Developmental Disabilities Services (NASDDDS) and the Association of University Centers on Disability (AUCD) agreed to collaborate in developing products and activities promoting the responsible application of the best available research evidence in the design, administration and reform of services. The initiative is designed to stimulate the preparation of critical research reviews on topics of importance in developing and implementing sound public policy affecting individuals with developmental disabilities and their families. This session will describe the focus of the project, its implications for the development of data-driven state and federal DD policy. Examples will feature the use of data from the RISP, NCI and other sources on the relationship of residential setting size on costs and outcomes. Additional presentations will describe Kentucky's use of outcome data in public policy and practice decisions.

SPEAKERS: Amy Hewitt, University of MN, RTC on Community Living; Chas Moseley, NASDDDS; Kathy Sheppard-Jones, University of Kentucky

STRAND: The Journey from Traditional Services to Person-Centered Supports

How to Eat a Dinosaur: Changing the Culture of an Organization to Move Towards Personalization and Individualization
This session will look at how agencies work to transform themselves from providing traditional services to striving to provide individualized and personalized services. Organizations approach this from different perspectives with different cultures but all struggle to move towards a person-centered approach. Come and listen to how organizations move forward with providing a different type of support.

SPEAKERS: Carol Beatty, The Arc Howard County; Steve Blanks, Seeking Equality, Empowerment, and Community; Mike Mayer, Community Resource Alliance, Inc

BREAKOUT 3: Monday 3:30 – 5:00 Baltimore A

STRAND: Supporting Individuals by Strengthening Families

Supporting Families Who Provide Day to Day Supports
Families play an important role in providing the day-to-day support to their family member with I/DD across the entire lifespan. The type of supports for families varies depending on their individual needs and includes services and goods such as planning for current and future needs, respite, in-home supports, crisis prevention and intervention, home modifications, and health/wellness management. This session will highlight strategies within and outside of the traditional disability options for supporting families in these roles.

SPEAKERS: Isabel Hodge, Dept of Defense, Office of Community for Military Families with Special Needs; Jill Kagan, National Respite Network

BREAKOUT 3: Monday 3:30 – 5:00 Baltimore B

STRAND: Employment Issues

The State of the Science in ID/DD: Seeking Perspectives from Policy Makers and Advocates
This session will engage policy makers and advocates in a conversation about research and research translation for effective policies. This working session will provide opportunities for policy makers and policy advocates to shape the future research agenda in the field of developmental disabilities. Information from the State of the Science in DD will be shared and serve as a discussion point for participants.

SPEAKERS: Amy Hewitt, University of MN, RTC on Community Living; Lori Sedlezky, University of MN, RTC on Community Living

BREAKOUT 4: Tuesday 8:30 – 10:00 Maryland F

STRAND: Federal Initiatives to Expand and Improve Supports for People with Disabilities

The Role of Medicaid: A Chance to Dialogue with Senior CMS Officials
The role of Medicaid in the provision of community services is extensive. New program options, funding formulas, rules and regulations and grant opportunities all affect the lives of people with disabilities. This session is an opportunity to hear from and dialogue directly with the leadership of CMS responsible for home and community services. Come take part in this opportunity to dialogue with senior officials from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS).

SPEAKERS: Ralph Lollar, CMS Disabled and Elderly Health Program Group, Division of Long Term Services and Supports; Nancy Thaler, NASDDDS, Moderator

BREAKOUT 4: Tuesday 8:30 – 10:00 Baltimore A

STRAND: Quality Management Challenges and Solutions

The CQL Personal Outcome Measures®: 20 Years of Accomplishments
Jim Gardner, President and CEO of CQL, The Council on Quality and Leadership, and panel colleagues will explore the impact of the Council’s Personal Outcome Measures® on system reform, services, and personal quality of life – successes, failures, lessons learned, and next steps.

SPEAKERS: Cathy Ficker-Terrill, Institute for Public Policy for People with Disabilities; Becky Hansen, South Dakota Achieve; Jim Gardner, The Council on Quality and Leadership

BREAKOUT 4: Tuesday 8:30 – 10:00 Baltimore B

STRAND: Self-Advocacy

Allies in Self-Advocacy – What Does it Take?
This session will review the findings from a series of self-advocacy summits that took place between 2010-2012 and involved all U.S. states and territories. Speakers will discuss trends in state self-advocacy activities, resources, challenges and plans; as well as the supports that would help strengthen self-advocacy organizations. We will also share lessons learned from the experience of creating teams of self-advocates and professionals who might not have worked together before.

SPEAKERS: Ken Capone, People On The Go; Liz Weintraub, AUCD; Dawn Rudolph, AUCD, Moderator

BREAKOUT 4: Tuesday 8:30-10:00 Homeland

BREAKOUT SESSION 5

STRAND: Technology

Implications and Use of Innovative Technologies in Services and Supports for People with Disabilities
This session will provide an overview of strategies and exciting uses of cloud technologies to enhance the quality of life and services for people with disabilities and will identify strategies and tools that can be used to implement and successfully use various state of the art technologies within organizations that support individuals with disabilities.

SPEAKERS: Enid Ablowitz, Univ. of Colorado, Coleman Institute for Cognitive Disabilities; Clayton Lewis, National Institute for Disability and Rehabilitation Research (NIDRR); Greg Wellems, Imagine!

BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland A

STRAND: More from Our Plenary Speakers!

Person-Centered Support as a Process of Social Invention
Progress toward realizing the promise of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, especially the guarantees of community inclusion and open employment, requires organizations capable of collaborating with people and their families to generate social inventions. Much investment in person-centered planning stops short of social invention and focuses on a better fit between existing offerings and individual preferences. This is desirable, but not enough to shift the range of valued social roles available to people with developmental disabilities. We’ll explore some of the commitments and conditions associated with creating new paths to contributing citizenship.

SPEAKERS: John O’Brien, Responsive Systems Associates

BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland B

STRAND: Shared Living

Shared Lives: Hearing from Those Providing and Partaking of Shared Living
Hear from a number of states and provider agencies about their approaches to shared living with presentations from an organization providing support to those who share their lives along with perspectives from individuals who are currently sharing their lives.

SPEAKERS: Gerry Morrissey, The MENTOR Network; Katherine Thompson, RI MENTOR Shared Living; Susan Robertson, RI MENTOR Shared Living; Robin Cooper, NASDDDS, Moderator

BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland C
STRAND: Transition Issues

Partnerships in Employment: Perspectives about Systems Change
Employment for Youth and Young Adults with ID/DD requires extensive collaboration among state agencies for education, developmental disabilities and vocational rehabilitation. Differing interpretations of definitions, diverse funding streams and regulations pose significant barriers to young adults as they exit school systems. Six states are responding to the challenges through a new project, funded by the Administration on Developmental Disabilities. Through Consortia consisting of self-advocates, family members, state agency leaders, policy makers, educators, and business representatives, the state projects in California, New York, Iowa, Missouri, Mississippi and Wisconsin are addressing policy and practices to effect systemic change that will result in improved employment and post-secondary outcomes for youth and young adults in these states. Come hear about these exciting initiatives and ideas your state can use!

SPEAKERS: John Butterworth, Institute for Community Inclusion, Umass Boston; Karen Flippo, Institute for Community Inclusion, Umass Boston; Rie Kennedy-Lizotte, NASDDDS

BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland D

STRAND: Re-thinking Supports for Individuals with Behavioral Health Needs

Supporting People with Behavioral Health Needs at Home: Best Practices at the System and Individual Level
This session will discuss two different approaches to reducing the need for behavioral interventions. A presentation on a new model of in-home crisis supports in Georgia will provide a system-level perspective, while the second presentation will discuss principles of environmental design and that can be used at the individual planning level to increase independence and reduce the need for services.

SPEAKERS: Marylee Fay, Oregon Dept. of Human Services, Developmental Disability Services; Eddie Towson, Division of Developmental Disabilities, GA; Clint Trusty, Georgia Division of Developmental Disabilities

BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland E

STRAND: Evolving a Shared Research Agenda

The State of the Science in ID/DD: Seeking Provider Perspectives
This session will engage service providers in a conversation about research and research translation. This working session will provide opportunities for the providers of services to shape the future research agenda in the field of developmental disabilities. Information from the State of the Science in DD will be shared and serve as a discussion point for participants.

SPEAKERS: Angela Amado, University of MN, RTC on Community Living; Sheryl Larson, University of MN, RTC on Community Living

BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Maryland F

STRAND: Federal Initiatives to Expand and Improve Supports for People with Disabilities

HUD and CMS Collaborations to Create Affordable Housing Resources
Affordable housing is essential for people with disabilities to live a self-determined life in the community. The HHS Community Living Initiative, an effort to advance the directive of the 1999 Olmstead decision, includes a partnership with HUD to create more affordable, accessible housing resources for people in need of long-term supports and services. This session will provide an overview of this collaboration and of the affordable housing resources that have been created to date. Updates on the Non-Elderly Disabled (NED) Category II Housing Choice vouchers (Section 8) and HUD 811 Project Rental Assistance (PRA) program created by the Frank Melville Act of 2010 will be included, as well as strategies for taking advantage of these resources in your state.

SPEAKERS: Kathryn King, CMS; Benjamin Metcalf, HUD Office of the Acting FHA Commissioner/Assistant Secretary for Housing; Lisa Sloane, Technical Assistance Collaborative; Susannah Still, HUD – Housing Voucher Management and Operations Division

STRAND: Improving Quality through Managed Care

Shaping the Funding Reform Discussion in Your State
Curious about the path of funding reform as it relates to long term services and supports for people with IDD? IDD stakeholders have a vested interest in those outcomes, but are often unfamiliar with the language and systems of a managed care framework. Participants in this session will get a behind the scenes look at what state governments may be dealing with as they pull out of the deepest recession experienced in our lifetime and their motivation to move to capitated funding models to curb unsustainable costs. Join HSRI consultant and former state DD Director, Lilia Teninty and Diane McComb, ANCOR State Association Liaison for a discussion of how the ANCOR Funding Reform Checklist can assist stakeholders in leading the dialogue in their respective states.

SPEAKERS: Diane McComb, Delmarva Foundation, ANCOR, Lilia Teninty, HSRI
BREAKOUT 5: Tuesday 1:45 – 3:15 Baltimore B

STRAND: Self-Advocacy

Key Issues in Self-Advocacy Organizations
Many self-advocacy organizations exist in support of people experiencing a wide range of abilities. This panel of leaders from different self-advocacy organizations will share their thoughts and different perspectives on key questions facing the self-advocacy movement, including, (1) what are your organization’s goals? (2) how can self-advocacy organizations work together to achieve common goals regarding rights and access for people with disabilities? (3) how can advisors/facilitators/allies best support self-advocacy organizations to reach their goals? (4) how does your organization get the support needed to work effectively?

SPEAKERS: Barbara Coppens, The Arc National Council of Self-Advocates; Amy Doherty, National Youth Leadership Network; Teresa Moore, People First of Arizona; Ricardo Thornton, Project ACTION; Liz Weintraub, AUCD, Moderator

The mission of the National Association of State Directors of Developmental Disabilities (NASDDDS) is to assist member state agencies in building person-centered systems of services and supports for people with developmental disabilities and their families.

Guiding Principles
The association’s goal is to promote and assist states in developing effective, efficient service delivery systems that furnish high-quality services and supports to people with lifelong developmental disabilities. State service systems should be based on the principle that people with developmental disabilities have a right to:

- be treated with respect and dignity;
- be independent and make individual choices;
- participate in family, community, and work life;
- have opportunities to maximize their full potential; and
- receive outcome-based services and supports.

National Core Indicators
Measuring the outcomes and performance of state developmental disabilities systems

- Over 100 outcome and performance indicators covering key areas such as Employment, Health and Safety, Choice, and Community Inclusion
- Data on over 22,000 individuals and families in 2009-2010.
- A voluntary collaboration of 29 state agencies and growing.
- Annual collection of statewide outcome and performance data providing evidence for improving practice, influencing policy, and enriching the knowledge base of the field.

National Programs Improving State System Performance, Individual & Employment Outcomes:

NCI is a joint program of the National Association of State Directors of Developmental Disabilities Services (NASDDDS) and the Human Services Research Institute (HSRI) and participating state DD agencies.

For more information, please see our exhibits or contact NASDDDS or HSRI.

The State Employment Leadership Network (SELN)

A community of practice improving integrated employment outcomes for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. It’s easy to talk about Employment First and individual self-sufficiency — it is much harder to make those goals a reality. The 25 SELN member state agencies are working to make these goals a reality in their states.

The SELN brings state agencies together to improve employment outcomes for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The network supports agencies as they:

- share information and strategies
- collect accurate data
- help each other stay focused and inspired
- work toward long-term goals
- measure their progress
